

To whom it may concern,

I have known and worked with Ron Miranda since May 2008. In that time, Ron has always represented himself as a true wine professional as well as an extremely effective salesperson. His extensive wine knowledge coupled with the ability to effectively communicate and close sales have always been among his strengths. My business interactions with Ron have consistently been characterized by excellent attention to detail, strong leadership, superior organizational and communication skills as well as flawless follow through to assure that jobs are done completely and to the customer's satisfaction.

In summary, I can enthusiastically recommend Ron Miranda for any position where the aforementioned skills and talents are useful and required to be successful.
